Norfolk Coastal Opera 2012

Young singers from The Yorke Trust's annual opera course perform scenes and choruses from popular works in venues around the North Norfolk Coast. Programmes are devised and directed by Jennifer Hamilton. This year's scheme raises funds for next year's production of Benjamin Britten's A Midsummer Night's Dream - part of Familiar Fields, East Anglia's celebration of Britten's centenary.

Throughout July private sponsors, hosts and hostesses, open their homes and invite friends to share music and food in beautiful surroundings. These opportunities provide a valuable platform for young voices to perform away from the pressures of academic life and examinations in conservatoires and universities.

Three fully-staged gala performances in the Trust's Old Chapel in South Creake provide a climax to the project. Singers on the course receive free training from some of the world's top coaches, who give their time without a fee. The Trust provides accommodation, and the Norfolk countryside makes the perfect place for serious study.

Chairman, The Yorke Trust
